I slutändan tycker jag att man framför allt får med sig metodkunskaper och utvecklad för kritiskt tänkande. Även om många av de övriga kurserna varit väldigt nyttiga bleknar detaljkunskaperna med tiden. Kurser som gett förståelse för politiska system och den svenska förvaltningen har varit särskilt användbara i just min situation

None really, since I work in an unrelated field
Diving into complex problem, understanding it is difficult to define right or wrong in all situations, understanding there are a lot of gray zones and the importance of trying to build bridges, basically understanding the complexity of human behavior in political context helped me to become solution driven by having a lot of understanding.
My master's degree in Public administration and policy analysis from Gothenburg University.
Kvantmetod, otroligt användbart att behärska databearbetning och kunna beskriva/följa upp verksamhet genom statistik, nyckeltal mm.
Förvaltningsrätt
Because I work in communications rather than political science (not by choice), the specific poli Sci classes are not altogether un-useful, but subject matter is not overly relevant.

Academic studies as a general practice.
International Master's Programme in Environmental and Political Science
Courses that forced critical thinking
A little blend of them all
Environmental Politics
Philosophy. Especially practical philosophy. Argumentation analysis.
Effectively none, but Political Science provides context for me personally, something severely lacking in the IT industry in general. I like to think that Political Science helps me make better choices. I also did not complete the full curriculum, as the acceleration in the field of computers dragged me back in.
None of the above, project management.

30. Om du skulle ge ett råd till studenter som studerar statsvetenskap, vad skulle det vara?

Om du skulle ge ett råd till studenter som studerar statsvetenskap, vad skulle det vara?

I think it is useful to be open to many career possibilities. Besides the knowledge and skills within political science, a student also has analytical and problem-solving skills that can be implemented more broadly. This means that a graduate of political science has more choices available in the job market.

Välj praktik

Don't make a fuss of all the preaching of how the world works that teachers at Uni do. Learn the subjects and do the work. People preaching about how they believe things to be is, unfortunately, a constant.

Gör någonting extra, exempelvis praktik eller studier utomlands! Och färdigställ dina studier. För min del har det aldrig spelat någon roll vilka exakta kurser jag läst men att jag haft en akademisk examen har varit avgörande.

Make connections with employers that you want to work with.

Be open minded. There are so many different workplaces and titles that I did not know about from my studies at all.

Ha något annat som huvudämne.

Work a few years before going to university.

Gör praktik! Och läs tilläggskurser i förvaltningsrätt, någon mindre kurs i företagsekonomi eller nationalekonomi. Det verkar åtminstone inom myndigheter finnas en fördel i att ha lite breddad kunskap, dvs inte enbart statsvetenskap.

Sometimes going to parties are equally important as going to class. Take risk.

Gör en plan för att fullfölja studierna. Engagera dig under studietiden i föreningsliv, antingen på eller utanför universitetet.

Gör praktik

Practice on taking a leading role in group assignments, you will see that in working life you will have to do many group works all the time.

You can't really :-)

Grupparbeten och projekt är det som ger mest inför arbetslivet.

Study hard and mix it with relevant working experience

Ta det inte så allvarligt - det löser sig.

Find fields of interests and turn it into an expertise

Välj Ekonomi som huvudspår. Svårt att få jobb med statsvetenskap.

Focus on the areas you enjoy the most and strive to excel - employers are looking for passion more than exact technical /knowledge fit.

Gör praktik, gärna sista terminen

Att arbeta vid sidan av studierna

Try to get an internship with an agency. Without previous experience working for an agency, it is quite difficult to get any sort of employment with them. Try getting politically engaged outside your studies, too, as that will be a great avenue to convert your pol sci knowledge into practice, and it may even prove to be an employment opportunity.

Engagera er utanför studierna

If you want to work in politics, join a political party

Begin at an early level, find any job that might provide relevant work experience.

Studieteknik är oerhört viktigt. Hur du lägger upp arbetet, hittar just ditt sätt att lära dig och driva arbetet framåt.

Ta tillvara på din utbildningstid

Stop focusing on grades and political theory. Focus on föreningslivet and internships. As concrete and tangible as possible.

Try to get a student job

Utbildningen är bred, hitta det du som du tycker är spännande och försök hitta ett yrke där du kan applicera din kunskap och intresse.

Study something else

Internship is key.

Internships and making contacts.

Have a part time job during your studies!

Try to have a side job with some kind of relevance for your studies.

Att på frihand kunna skissa upp Irans intrikata politiska system är förvisso inget populärt partytrick men likväl intressant att kunna. Utbildningen var mycket intressant och jag använder ofta kunskapen i mitt yrke. Hänge dig åt studierna!

Internships and working in relevant areas besides studies.

Study something else. Nobody hires Pol. Sci. graduates. Go study law instead so you at least can get a job moving papers. I had to start studying again, after a master's, to have a chance to get hired. Maybe I will have to go back to being a waitress with a master's. Don't do pol. Sci.!!!

Courses in economics and choose quantitative methods course

Sätt er in i hur kommunal verksamhet fungerar. Försök hitta extra jobb som administrativ assistent på någon kommun där du får vara en del av beredningsprocessen av ärenden som tas fram till politiken. Kolla på din kommuns sammanträden för att få en bredare bild av kommun och region.

Do several internships

Everything is about nepotism, so don't bother

Get job, go Abroad and learn a language ☺

Göra praktik. Ta relevanta kurser utöver statsvetenskap.

Kombinera ämnet med nationalekonomi :-)

Engage with student organisations like Model United Nations to strengthen argumentation skills, broaden professional network and practice public speaking. This is extremely useful when interviewing for jobs and doing presentations and reports at work.

Tänk efter om du verkligen vill jobba med något där statsvetenskap är relevant. Jag är fortfarande intresserad av statsvetenskap. Men jag skulle aldrig vilja jobba med ett kontorsjobb, därför var det inte rätt för mig.

Do an internship!

Study something else.

Se till att få bra referenser genom en praktik, det gör alltid skillnad när man ska söka jobb (framförallt det första!) i framtiden.

Join your student council SVÄR, become a student representative or get involved with the student union in other ways.

No

Network

Contacts and aim for work experience while studying.

I believe it's useful to choose specific courses that reflect your interest, to sort of narrow yourself down to a few concrete themes. This will help you to stand out when applying for a job

Om de har samma mål och intressen som mig skulle jag råda dem att inte läsa statsvetenskap. Jag läste statsvetenskap eftersom jag hade dåligt självförtroende i min ungdom och därför tänkte att jag måste jobba inom staten eftersom jag inte trodde att jag kunde få ett kvalificerat yrke inom privat sektor.

Internship. Internship. Internship. Getting that experience is essential for opening up future opportunities and contacts.

Additionally, while I did not study abroad, friends who have done so say that it is one of the highlights of their studies.
Broden your horizons on potential employers. There are plenty of different interesting and well paid jobs at kommuner or regioner. Your first job does not have to be at MSB or regeringskansliet!
Networking is key
Läs något annat, väldigt flummigt och svårt att få jobb inom
Intern/ Working Student Job
Work ethic and a good attitude is all you need, everything else is marginal
Currently almost all relevant jobs in the public sector require experience with as the title in question. I have seven years of experience from volunteering but none of that matters to the employers. Internships is the only way to get a foot into the public sector right now.
I had two semesters (once during my masters and once during my bachelor's) where I could apply for internships. None of my applications were accepted by the employers, so I got no internship. Now I won't even be considered by any public employer as I lack experience from the public sector.
Genomför praktik. Sök visstidsanställningar.
Pick a good internship
Find a part-time job during studies
Get courses from other domain too, e.g Business, computer science (especially AI)
Betyg spelar ingen som helst roll, det behövs inte ens en examen. Det viktigaste är praktik, nätverka och bygga arbetslivserfarenhet.
Make sure to have some extra curriculums besides studying (for example having a part time job within a field you want to work).
You will need a Master's degree, minimum....
Diversify your studies, when you work in groups really engage with the group dynamic
Det kan ta tid att få en tillsvidareanställning då många myndigheter har visstidsanställning, men när du väl har tillsvidareanställning så får du en trygghet som även ger dig möjlighet att ta tjänstledigt och arbeta på andra myndigheter.
The internship is very important, but also summer jobs.
Gör allt i er makt för att få praktik. 6 månaders till 2 års erfarenhet specifikt av handläggaryrket är idag ett grundkrav för att få ingångsjobb som handläggare. Annan erfarenhet räknas inte. Det är förjävligt!
Get internships, do a erasmus exchange and please be active outside of studying in organisations unions, or get a parttime job suitable for your future career or what applies to your lifesituation. This is where you build a network and learn to apply your skills. To get a job in sweden it is crucial to have done these things to get a foot in to the market.
Att söka praktik
Specialize, and get to know people in your field of interest.
Learn something hard. Gain practical knowledge that is "sellable" to future employers. Theory is useful in developing your own thinking (and it's vital for a university to teach that), but it's hard to package to employers.
Get a real degree. STEM, law or MD.
Focus on tools, project management skills, communication skills.
Study subjects you're interested in, diversify your studies, do internships, attend career events to create personal contacts and get involved in student associations.
The degree is way too easy for full-time. I worked parallel to my studies which gave me an advantage.
Gör det inte på Stockholm universitet
You have to be prepared to compete for jobs. There are more people who study political science than there are jobs, so contacts, volunteering and doing things to gain additional merits on the side is crucial.
Be confident and focus on learning how to deliver quality, to understand what your mission is and learn how to identify your strengths.
Always choose internships before regular courses. It will benefit you greatly when applying for jobs.
Do as many Economics courses as possible.
It helps to choose one direction and work towards it, the first job might not be the dream job but it can be a contributing factor to getting the dream job. Also to not be afraid of changing course, if you realise one career path wasn't as good a fit as expected don't be afraid to pivot.
Ideellt eller politiskt engagemang vid sidan om studier.
A bachelors isn't enough.
Possibly to start studying later in life rather than sooner. I began my studies at the age of 18, with no clue of what I wanted to do in life. As of now, I probably would have specialized in something else.
Make sure you decide on what kind of issues are close to your heart and something you would like to work with. It helps you a lot in choosing your major. Political science is a vast majority of. It helps you a lot if you pick a specific issue you're passionate about.
Networking, and having a part time job at the same time. Interning at places where you can be employed after graduation
Statsvetenskap är brett och det kan vara svårt som student att veta vad man egentligen blir och läser. Fokusera mycket på det akademiska skrivandet och det kritiska granskandet, samt förståelse för olika politiska system. Tänk redan i början av studierna på en eventuell vidare inriktning - det kommer underlätta arbetssökande såväl som engagemanget för studierna.
If your desire is to work in academically inclined areas, spread your knowledge as much as you can to relevant and employable subjects.
Find a niche within the broad field of political science (this goes for any social science major), for me that was research methods, specifically quantitative research.
Gör praktik! Och hitta ett deltidsjobb vid sidan om studierna!
Ta praktik eller studera utomlands! Det ger så mycket möjligheter
Network and get experience
Att vara öppen/sinlig. Det finns många tjänster inom offentlig förvaltning där du har nytta av det som man lärt sig på statsvetenskap.
I think that the courses should be more practically oriented. Comparative politics and the EU studies course have been the most useful for me to actually undertake my work. Political philosophy is interesting in itself but it does not prepare one for civil service.
Komplettera med praktik och eller extrajobb inom den bransch du vill arbeta i. Skriv uppsats om den bransch du vill arbeta i. Tyvärr är det väldigt få som bryr sig VAD man läst, mer ATT man har pluggat och har en examen.
Att både vara öppen för andra perspektiv, samtidigt som att man är kritisk i sina tolkningar.
Välj handledare med omsorg.
Jag har inte haft användning av min examen i Internationella relationer i min karriär. Gick en annan utbildning och fick jobb genom den och på grund av den utbildningen (YH-utbildning).
Gain working / volunteering experience. Be yourself, follow what you truly like, network
Om du är beroende av dina studier för att hitta ett jobb som du ska försörja dig på - studera något annat.
Try to get a job while studying, definitely helps to have some work life experience once they're done with school.

Gör praktik i så stor utsträckning som möjligt, skaffa relevanta sommarjobb.

Fokusera på att hitta en relevant praktik, försök ha ett extrajobb som är relevant för din utbildning/dina framtidsplaner, gör volontärarbete/ideellt arbete, gör en utbytestermi, fokusera på andra språk, håll dig bred i din utbildning, försök identifiera trender i var pengar spenderas tex idag läggs mycket statlig budget inom försvarssektorn - om du vill öka chanserna för arbete inom statlig sektor.

Gain practical skills quickly and continuously improve on your ability to analyse critically. Practice academic freedom and pursue knowledge.

For the love of god, do an internship

Det är inte lätt att finna ett relevant jobb efter studierna och konkurrensen är hög. Så mitt bästa råd är att göra praktik eller att jobba extra vid sidan av studierna för att få arbetslivserfarenhet.

Be curious. Ask more questions. Believe in your knowledge.

Work during your studies.

Ta vara på möjligheten att praktisera i studierna om man inte har liknande arbetslivserfarenhet sedan tidigare.

Be flexible with career choices, political science world is brutal, super competitive and despite how smart or hard working you are there are always people with better connections and support networks than you.

Läs program, ha relevant extrajobb på sommaren eller vid sidan av studier för att öka din attraktivitet på arbetsmarknaden

Take any job during studies in the field you want to get into.

Engagera sig utanför studierna i en ideell organisation som har att göra med det man vill jobba med samt praktik.

I think the most important thing is to not buy into the idea of it being "so hard" to get a job after studying politics. I mean, I know its hard to get jobs and everyone loves to tell you so when studying politics, however - in the end a big factor will be how good you are socially. If the competition is hard, then social factors will play a huge role in interviews etc. Spend a lot of time practicing before interviews, but also spend a lot of time talking about politics if you have the chance. Everyone can have good grades but not everyone can uphold interesting conversations in a room - be that and you should be fine!

Bridge the gap between studies and qualified work through internship.

Get engaged in the student union.

Fortsätt! Tillsammans skapar vi en bättre värld!

Start gaining a understanding of what you want to do after you graduate. Also try to study abroad, that remains a regret that I have since I did not take the opportunity. Apply for internships and summer jobs, and do not underestimate the power of applying even though the workplace has not published a job opening. Gain contacts by reaching out to people. At the end of the day, be enthusiastic because all employers want to hire someone with a positive attitude. I got my first job in a way through spontaneous applications, and that showed them that I really want to work at my current workplace.

Study for passion but chase work that excites you. Get out of Sweden to avoid depression and gain experience.

Jättetufft att få jobb men det gäller att inte ge upp.

Study a lot, learn a lot, and avoid one-liners.

Gör praktiken

Åk på utbyte!

Choose your thesis topic wisely and in advance.

Get in line...

For god sake, do an internship. I was lucky that I did these before in Germany. Without working experience, it is really difficult to get into the job market especially in Sweden with a foreign background. Again, do an internship as a political science student. Even though the political science background is nice and helpful for developing skills, my business studies knowledge helped me a lot to work in company context. Only studying political science can be difficult for a first job entry, since employers might see the subject not as relevant.

Gather work experience parallel to your studies. Get a job after your bachelor's and then take a leave of absence

"tjänstledighet" when ready to pursue your masters

Work part time in relevant fields during studies

Get used to reading and summarizing the content a lot. Whatever you work on in school or at a job, make sure that you are able to summarize large informations such as documents containing a lot of text. Being able to pinpoint exactly what you need to remember or work with and what you can skip (in various different types of content) will give you an edge in understanding the course / job.

In regards to finding work, the market is cut throat which means you need to have very good grades and experience with student life and other jobs. The recruiter is interested in the ones that have examples of work where you have applied methods and the results of those. Your thesis is therefore very important but the theme of the thesis is not that important, it is important how you sell the theme of the thesis to the recruiter.

Hitta en bra praktik

Personally: Combining studies with complementary courses in statistics has been crucial. My experience is that you need some sort of specialization as a generalist - it could be in methodology or a policy area or other subject! It can also be gained through work life experience. It is also important to try to get real practical working skills - doing internships etc! The competition is high and it's not only other political scientists - do gaining experience and specialization in some area is important.

Not really, as I have not been working in the field. Though in general, focus on critically assessing information and get to the ground effectively.

Internships, "break through" door to civil service somehow (all such jobs require previous civil service nowadays)

No

Doing an internship is crucial for getting employed.

Ämnena må kännas opraktiska/oanvändbara i arbetslivet men för allmänbildningen är de mycket relevanta. Gör det du ska och ske det som skall.

Choose your thesis topic based on which supervisor you'll have. Having a supervisor who sets high standards and can help you getting the skills to raise the quality of your work is knowledge and experience you'll greatly value later in your career. If you can write and express yourself clearly and in a structured way, you'll have an advantage over roughly 60% of your future competitors.

Find what drives your passion for Political Science and use it to make internships and let it become your career. For some it can be that Political Science is the study of how the world interacts. If so focus on research or international organizations. If it is to learn from others go towards the more educational parts of PolSci. If you're studying it for improving the world, you might want to take additional courses to see where your talents lie to make this become reality. PolSci isn't a studies with a clearly defined path behind it. Take it as a first step.

Networking.

Be good friends with gatekeepers at work.

Instead of trying to custom and streamline your studies for what you might think you will work with after graduation - try to choose courses that give you as much variety as possible. Having a diverse set of knowledge will be helpful and will help you understand the world we work in.

Study economics as well.

Gör praktik och jobba vid sidan av studierna inom ditt område

Take the opportunity to do an internship and/or get organised in one of the student associations. Make connections at different events, do something that "stands out" in your CV.

Learn Excel and R/Python
Work and take on internships while you study. A philosophical degree of any kind is almost useless on its own.
Do different kinds of internships and student jobs to find out what kind of tasks you enjoy. For me it was quite the revelation during my first student job at an NGO that even though I loved the topic I was working with I really didn't enjoy the tasks that came with it: reading and writing texts. I realized I preferred working with numbers.
Work on the side of your studies. Become engaged in societies or normal jobs.
Lär dig ett tredje språk för spännande yrken inom statsvetenskapen.
Var kul att jobba med, var flexibel med vilka arbetsuppgifter du gör
Get another degree as well
Be open to complementing your Political Science knowledge with studies from other fields.
Volunteer work.
Gör dina läxor. Spika uppsatsen. Gör praktik.
While theoretical knowledge is beneficial and very useful, practical skills are an important developing area in the program.
Gör praktik
Hoppa av studierna och gör något annat! Skaffa en yrkesutbildning istället.
Learn practical skills
Som för alla ämnen; Fundera om det är rätt för mig och var inte rädd för att tänka om.
Jag bytte inriktning till företagsekonomi, och tycker det har gett mig en bredare bas för att kunna arbeta inom de företag /organisationer som många som studerar statsvetenskap har som mål. Tex EU/ambassad eller liknande.
It's such a great program. I have friends who completed their studies and have traveled the world.
Have connections before or during your studies.
Studera något annat. Något mer användbart. Är inte värt att vara arbetslös +3 år
Study somewhere else
Nyttja praktikperiod till att skapa kontakter inom en organisation
Do an internship during your studies. Take your masters degree if you want to work within political science.
It's good to have an idea of what you want to specify in. It's also good to get working experience in the field you want to get into.
Since I'm not currently working in the field I'm not quite sure I'm the best adviser.
Do an internship and get as much work experience as you can.
Do internships and get reference letters
Skaffa dej en djupare kunskap än de flesta.
Mycket är ganska ytligt nu.testa studenternas kunskaper bättre.
Det ska inte räcka med att ungdomarna har läst på pp-bilderna som visas och kunna namedroppa. De ska åtminstone kunna redogöra i fullständiga meningar.
Gör praktik
Internship is key. My first internship gave helped me get my first job as part time employee. And my first two jobs helped me get my current job.
Unfortunately today, it is never enough to "just" study or get good academic grades. Getting practical work experience (at an NGO, summer job at an agency, working at a consultancy) is what will secure a job after graduating. Obtaining skills such as presenting, making a good PPT, and being able to identify the most important parts in text/information will help.
Do interships, part-time work or volunteer in something relaterade to what your dream job is, to gain experience and get a sense of the occupation before applying.
Networking is crucial. And proactive approach is important too. And of course, if someone is a foreigner like me, take Swedish classes seriously as fluency in Swedish is more important than people believe to find a job
Critical thinking skills are key, especially in the era of easy, computer-generated answers. Employers are happy to teach their employees the in and outs of the business (I work in SaaS with no previous IT experience), but they can't teach them to think, to analyse information, to be curious and to seek answers.
If you are not certain about a political career specifically, combine with some other field such as economics, criminology or BA, as political science is very broad and it could be hard to stand out from others when job hunting.
Engage in groups
By internship. I didn't do that, but I wish I would have.
Have more real life examples
Do different internships, get involved in different organizations
Get experience! From working, trying different internships, NGO's
Engage in the student union
Take courses in economics
If you want to stay in your field, get relevant internship experience to stand out. As I didn't have it, I couldn't get a job in my field and had to settle for a consultancy
Do an internship with the aim of being an intern. I did my internship and was aiming to work, and that kind of misses the whole point.
Experience
Komplettera med statistikkurser alternativt ta examen inom båda.
Gör praktik!! Utan praktiken hade jag inte fått jobb.
Make sure to connect with other students and try to work extra or for free even while studying just till get the vital experience needed within this field before actually getting a job.
Be open to different opportunities
More excel & power bi
Work extra from early on in related Fields and make sure you also get working experience
Svårt att få jobb extremt hög konkurrens
Part time and summer jobs at agencies is the most valuable experience I have found to get employed after graduation.
Knowledge of statistics softwares that are actually used by employers, i.e. not Stata.
Network and participate at fairs.
University can invite guests from different government organizations.
to inform and share how they work etc.
Start looking for job 6 months before graduating.
Be smart about electives, engage in extra curricular activities related to the area you want to work in (associations - not organizing parties, but actually meaningful projects), write your thesis in an area you want to work in, and do an internship in the industry you want to work in.
Think beyond the curriculum, it's about skills you learn not just facts
Make connections and keep contact

Stay curious and interested

Encourage students to get involved in associations in order for them to get a better sense of how decisions are made (in reality) in democratic/political organisations. It's also a great way to apply and test out skills.

Do internships or studies abroad

Be active in SVÄR and UF (Utrikespolitiska föreningen).

Talk to other professionals or stalk people on LinkedIn to find ideas for what you can do. There are more options than you think.

Apply for a traineeship in the EU. It is not hard to get accepted as a Swedish or Nordic citizen and it will boost your career.

Try to find a job related to the studies beside your studies

Do internships, engage in civil society and study abroad, there is no stress to graduation better to graduate later and do all this

Leave the desk, explore the world!

Oj, vet inte om det är råd direkt men om jag reflekterar vad jag tagit med mig från min utbildning så är det främst tankar kring det demokratiska etoset och vad tjänstemannarollen har för betydelse. Jag upplever att det finns många brister och inte en lika stark respekt för tjänstemännens oberoende idag jämfört med när jag kom ut i arbetslivet. En annan del är att det är mycket juridik och där har jag haft nytta av de kurser som jag läste men hade kanske önskat att jag läst ännu mer av just det.

Work while studying for a quicker entrance in the job market

1. Gör praktik

2. Läs program med ämnen som har tydlig koppling till den externa världen, som förvaltningsrätt, kommunallag,

N/A - I did not get a job related to my studies in Political Science

Engage in different clubs and civil society. Build networks both inside and outside of the university. Remember that you never know when you will cross roads with your fellow students and teachers after your studies.

Statsvetenskap är jättekul att läsa men svårt att omsätta till ett konkret yrke. Jag tror det är bra att kombinera med en profil.

Method, method and method!

Work hard but have more fun. In your working life you will meet people who have not worked as hard as you and it's important to not take things too seriously.

Try not to end up in the governmental sector as the first job

Engagera dig i metodkurser och studera det du tycker är roligt!

Yes, maybe re-evaluate what you want to do after your studies. Much as interesting and fun political science it is, the structure of the course do not bring you closer to an actual job, if you are not getting another job were your knowledge is to advantage or if you see yourselves sitting in a room at the university afterwards.

Värdera metodkursen högt

Experience! It is all about getting one foot in to the labor market and the rest will follow. I started by working a part time job while studying in the insurance industry and I stayed because I saw the international opportunities.

But an advice is that it is worth fighting for a job you really want. I have learnt that reaching out to companies or organizations yourself is the best way! Sending cv when a job add is published, it is easy to disappear through all the CVs so reaching out will make you stand out before they publish a position!

My advice

Do NOT turn down the internship!!! It is the most crucial course for your future employment. Another "random" theory course will not give you the same opportunity to bridge the gap between studies and work life.

Use every opportunity that you have to network

Na

Network

Get a first job and build on that. Degrees matter but experience matters a lot more.

Kämpa på och tänk nytt

Do an internship, try to find contacts during your studies or work extra with something related to your studies during your studies. This will definitely help you find a job after.

Engage in issues outside of the university as a student; choose your elective courses by heart-for me these courses have guided my line of work the most; and do an internship

Internship

Internship, meet at jobfairs etc.

Study law or national economics instead since it leads to more avd better jobs.

Läs mycket! Lär dig att skriva bra.

More hands on experience and better support for internships, especially towards non Swedish students as there is a lot of 'silent' inequality when choosing candidates

Start researching potential employers early on just to get an idea of what type of jobs you'll be eligible for and to get an idea of what you'd like to do. Write your thesis on something you'd like to work with. An internship can really be crucial if you want to get an interesting job as soon as possible.

Yes. Cut down on phone time. Listen in class and study hard. Read the paper and read fiction every day. Spend time with people irl and practice being polite. Social skills are more valuable than most students think, which include having knowledge about society, being up to date on whats going on and to be able to talk about it with others.

Prioritera empirisk förvaltningskunskap och metodologi över intressant politisk teori.

1. INTERNSHIPS! I did not do an internship during my Master's due to already having 5+ years relevant work experience, but if you do not have that experience, DEFINITELY do the internship course. I got my first relevant job after my Bachelor's due to my internship, which is how I could then build my work experience before doing the Master's. Internships are, based on both my own and the vast majority of my friends with similar study backgrounds' experience, crucial for getting your foot in the door if you are just starting out your career.

2. THESIS! While I firmly believe one should write a thesis based on one's interests in order to actually enjoy the quite hard work, it's also not a bad idea to think about what you want to work with after your studies when choosing a topic and designing the research project. The thesis writing can also be a way to get that foot in the door by writing about something relevant to a field you are interested in working in, and perhaps even doing the research in connection to specific organizations you are interested in working at later, as you can then gain connections as well as get some relevant insight into the field. I wrote about local government and how they handle environmental conflicting interests, and now work for a local government with environmental issues, to give an example.

3. ALTERNATIVE EXPERIENCE! Volunteering and being involved in community organizations does have value! Especially if you put in enough work to get some real responsibilities within those organizations. E.g. being a member of the board in your local environmental organization is really great experience if you then want to work with environmental issues as it shows both that you can manage the types of tasks that come with managing an organization which are common in work life too, AND that you are genuinely interested in the issues that you claim you want to work with. I have done some recruiting and tended to prefer candidates with these types of experience over other candidates, when everything else (education and work experience) was at similar levels.

Doing an internship
Gör praktik!
Get work experience while studying
Gör praktik på en arbetsplats som många arbetsgivare känner till, till exempel departement eller myndighet
Sök praktikplats inom RK (och inte bara UD)
Fördjupa dig inom frågor som känns roliga men också applicerbara på yrkeslivet. Var strategisk i dina val, vill du tex jobba statligt kan det vara väldigt förmånligt att ha gjort praktik på en statlig institution.
Start applying for jobs early, be open for working outside of your field of specialization
Internship was crucial, it was my first job after studies.
Do an internship! Work on the side, engage in voluntary work etc.
Don't be to critical or ideologically motivated. Working is about flexibility.
It depends of the carrier goal, if the goal is to work international then internship abroad or abroad studies is a good requirement/start
Gör praktik, det ger möjlighet till praktisk erfarenhet och att få in en fot på arbetsmarknaden
Network, be open minded, and learn Swedish (international students)
Internship, and also choosing a thesis topic that is relevant to the current needs of the labour market.
Even if it is not the most fun, study the hardest during the methods courses.
Lägg mycket fokus på metodkurserna.
- Study some statistics or quantitative methods.
- In general, focus on methodology and writing.
Mitt jobb som forskningsassistent under tiden jag studerade tror jag var nyckeln till att få en mer eftertraktad plats under mitt internship, vilket i sin tur ledde till ett bra första jobb
Choose an internship that would yield work opportunities
Make sure to apply for jobs/internships as an operative, i.e. MSB or within the field of crisis management where you actually make and assess decisions on a here-and-now daily basis.
Get job experience prior to finishing your studies.
Håll i, håll ut. Även om det kan vara svårt att få ett toppjobb direkt så är utbildning alltid en bra investering på längre sikt.
Sommarjobb och aktiviteter utanför studierna såsom i kåren
Se möjligheterna i att bredda din kunskapsbas med studier i andra discipliner som de naturvetenskapliga. Ta chansen att studera några år vid ett bra utländsk universitet. Sluta inte studera för att du går i pension. Viktigast av allt: Behåll din nyfikenhet livet ut!
Consider what knowledge niche you bring to a work place, whether geographical or thematic Haven't worked in fields that needs Pol Sci education take advantage of career days, and everything the university/department offers (ie abroad studies)
Start following organisations that are of interest to you, attend public events organised by those organisations and ask questions to get an understanding of the organisation
Tänk inte för mycket på vilka frågor du specialiserar dig i, du kommer byta frågor. Fokusera på att bli klar, lära dig generella kompetenser och bygg självförtroende.
In my experience theoretical knowledge is much less important than understanding the processes and forums.
Do internship
Att tidigt fundera över vad de vill arbeta med och var, och sedan inrikta sina studier på det. Skriv uppsats med en typ av arbete i åtanke. Praktik är mycket nyttigt!
Networking
Internships are useful. It can be hard to get the first job, but keep on trying. The education you got is great
Gather working experience
Start applying for internships and extra work as soon as possible
Try to get an Internship at a government agency (anyone!), or other big well known organisation or company. Your next employer Will not Care That you worked in civil society.
Nätverka
Choose an internship within the field/specialization you want to work in and attempt to gather contacts for future job opportunities
Select elective course, choose the topic for your thesis and select the internship in a field in which you'd like to work in the future!
Engagera dig i student styrelser som driver frågor som intresserar dig. Jobba extra. Gör praktik. Om möjligt skriv din uppsats för en arbetsgivare.
It may be easier to find a career where you are more in demand, even though political science is very interesting
Genomför en praktiktermin!
No
Välj bi-ämnena med omsorg. Statsvetenskapen ger otroligt bra grund att stå på när det handlar om arbete inom statlig myndighet, men blir väldigt generell. Bi-ämnena kan ge den kompletterande utbildningen som gör att man har den verkliga nyttan och sticker ut ur mängden. Bi-ämnena i personliga intressen eller något väldigt apart är ofta slöseri med tid och energi. Det blir särskilt avgörande för rekryterande chefer när folk söker sina första jobb efter universitetet.
Välj en praktikplats där huvudfrågorna engagerar dig. Om en praktik inte ingår i programmet, lägg till en praktikkurs. Praktiken var min väg till erbjudande om sommarvikariat två år på rad under fortsatta studier.
Praktisk erfarenhet värdesätts högt bland arbetsgivare och eventuell jury för masterstudier utomlands. Du kan även få den erfarenheten genom ideellt engagemang. Visa att du är intresserad och engagerad för att sticka ut ur mängden.
Do internships
Contacts. Unfortunately, the pandemic came right after graduation for me along with an unplanned move.
Knowledge in methods is important and know how to write!
Explore choices the BA offers and choose wisely your MA
Accumulate a plethora of varied extracurricular experiences, as an extension of your degree and interest. A degree in political science with the addition of other experiences and skills increases your chances of finding an interesting and exciting job.
Not sure my advice is applicable, but Political Science, Philosophy, Psychology, and similar subjects are severely lacking in the technical and engineering sectors to help comprehend the effects and consequences of technical advancements on society. This is especially true with the advent of Large Language Models, where the tech industry releases immature technology with overarching statements of its benefits to humanity without even basic comprehension of the complexity of human society. The inverse is also true, that the "soft sciences" (I apologize for my engineering bias) lack the capacity to actively engage - even on its own turf - when faced with the onslaught of the "self-assured, sophistic hype machine".
Do internships and do erasmus +. These are the main attributes looked at by your future Swedish employer.
Praktik är mycket viktigt för att få arbetslivserfarenhet! Statsvetenskap är ett användbart och roligt ämne som bäddar för många olika typer av arbeten

Do multiple internships, go abroad for a semester and attend student fairs with potential employers to gauge your interests and potential fit for a host of jobs. It is most likely so that you will not get the job you "think" right out of school so stay curious and open-minded.

Att vara öppen för många olika karriärmöjligheter då utbildningen är väldigt bred och ger kunskaper och förmågor som efterfrågas inom många olika sektorer i samhället.

Internships and summer jobs with relevance to what you would like to do in the future

Choose something to study that gives you a certain title, like Landscape architect, Psychologist, Economist. Don't waste your CSN with courses you don't really need and get a big loan because it's the best loan you can get.

Do extra courses. A lot of people to Pol. Sc and it is difficult to stand out.

Be open to opportunities

Se till att få en praktikplats!

Engagemang parallellt med studierna, ideell organisationer, eget intresse. Samt var ambitiös i sitt eget lärande.

Be active in organisations, like a political party or in civil society.

Be active in civil society.

Med vetenskapen om att det är en bred utbildning så är jobbmöjligheterna oändliga. Våga satsa, byt jobb och gå upp i lön, hitta vilket område du brinner för mest och våga börja. All jobberfarenhet är bra erfarenhet och med ett driv och bra inställning kan du komma hur långt som helst. V

Internship

Att hitta en nisch som arbetsmarknaden förväntas behöva när du är klar, och att välja en praktikplats där du hoppas få jobb.

Engage in organizations, work part time during your studies in related areas of interest. Try different work and positions as part time jobs to get more knowledge of your interest fields. Add work experience through volunteering.

Jobba extra med något relevant.

Try to get engaged anyway you can in the context you later would like to work (political parties, think tanks, NGOs etc.)

Have a good network. Go for internships - these will help.

Fokusera på att lära dig metodiken och lägg mindre fokus och vikt vid exakt vilket innehåll. Lär dig ringa in ett problem och hur du ska angripa frågan metodologisk. Denna färdighet hjälper dig i arbetslivet.

More focus on practical issues, such as government strategies, understanding of political policy, grants management, monitoring/evaluation, project management

Be flexible, be prepared to update your knowledge in the future, and don't forget that there are possibilities to study and work outside of Sweden too. Meeting people from different parts of Europe and the world can be very eye-opening in the long run and might help you see life in different ways.

Om du vill göra karriär inom staten kommer du förmodligen behöva ha en masterexamen.

Utlandserfarenhet är alltid en bra merit.

Hoppa av utbildningen och skaffa en yrkesutbildning istället.

Professional internship, methodology courses, Bachelor and Master thesis in collaboration with a relevant organization.

No, because I can't find a job.

Do an internship where you might be able to get employed. Choose elective courses with working life relevancy.

Att vara så vetgirig som möjligt och göra sina val utifrån personliga intressen.

Use your education to get better at oral presentations and critical thinking

Combine political science with other courses.

Do the internship!

In my case it was important to mix with law studies.

Do more than only study to build relationships

no. did not work withing this field

Sommarjobba eller sök jobb inom en politisk organisation för att få relevant arbetslivserfarenhet. I mitt jobb var det min kombination av att ha jobbat inom ett politiskt parti och ett politiskt förbund i kombination med att jag studerat kommunikation och statsvetenskap som var avgörande för att jag fick jobbet.

Finnish the degree on first try, don't let the essay linger

Choose better

Work with something related to what you studie during your studies

Gör praktik

Do an internship in a sector where you would like to work.

Hitta möjligheter för praktik

Gör praktik. Arbetsgivare söker ofta personer med praktisk erfarenhet inom exempelvis offentlig verksamhet. Jag valde att enbart läsa kurser. Jag söker jobb just nu och behöver konkurrera med personer som redan har praktisk kunskap och erfarenhet inom offentlig verksamhet, vilket jag tror försvårar mina möjligheter att snabbt komma in på arbetsmarknaden.

Take an internship where you try you can get a job afterwards. Also, try to get a student job related to the studies

Internship and networks

Välj de kurser som

kopplar bäst an till dina intresseområden.

Praktisera,

engagera dig ideellt eller arbeta extra under studietiden om du kan.

1. Try to work in relevant field during studies

2. Don't be afraid to take a job with less pay than what you expected, it's just to get the experience. And it may open doors you didn't know existed.

Do practice/internship! The more the better

Study something else for your actual career

First and foremost try to get an internship either while studying or after graduation both for networking and also future career possibilities. Also, studying abroad is a great asset to your resume and future employees.

Don't know, I went on to do my masters

Att göra praktik samt att fundera över hur man vill att ens jobbvardag ska se ut, jag fann t ex först när jag var färdig med min examen att jag värdesätter ett rörlig och omväxlande arbete. Upplevde då att många arbeten inom den statsvetenskapliga sfären innebar motsatsen (även om det så klart inte behöver vara fallet) och fick lite av en kris.

Engaging outside of studies and setting up goals and plans

Do an Internship

Gå in i det parti du sympatiserar med, det är först då man förstår på riktigt olika teorier.

Study something else

An internship is the best way in. And to have relevant part time jobs besides your studies
Gör praktik!
There needs to be a much stronger emphasis on oral presentation, analytical writing in English and Swedish and the possibility to include a 3 third language (like Spanish, French, Arabic etc). Also there needs to be a much stronger support and emphasis on internship. Political Science students will not make it if they cannot get an excellent internship relevant to their field. This is particularly so if they do not have connections.
No not really! Enjoyed the flexibility of the department.
All experience is good experience, take a job, try it out, get experience and then try something else out if it doesn't suit you. Eventually, you will get to a place that satisfies your needs. Never give up
Become involved in volunteer opportunities or academic engagements.
Skaffa kontakter utanför. Ha även ett relevant extrajobb om det går
Create good relations with other students, since you are likely to meet in working life
Have an extra job during studies and apply for a lot of jobs several months before graduation.
Shoos a topic within public administration to focus on. And specialise in. For instance procurement, planning / follow up, financial management and write you thesis about it.
Spend all your days at campus, do not study from home. The social interactions and connections you create are more important than the material you study.
Unlock yourself from the chains of "normal", the ones who can solve any problem are the ones who allows themselves to think outside the box and dares to try.
Connections is everything in work, to be able to sell yourself as a great choice and to use critical thinking effectively is key. But be aware not to just think, practice makes perfect not theory.
Volunteer or engage in civil society during your studies. It gives valuable insights and contacts for the future.
Volunteering creates great opportunity to expand your network, meet people with mutual interests, creates engagement and gives great experience.
Hard to find any job in that field, had to get another degree
Att engagera sig i en förening för att skapa nätverk och utveckla andra kompetensområden.
Internships are great ways to enter into the organization where one wishes to work in the future and to gain some hands-on experience and contacts.
Create an interest in the workplaces you work in, be open to doing things early in your career that don't fully meet your area of interest. Make connections, even in the most unexpected ways. Tell EVERYONE what you want to do, you never know who might be able to help with connections.
It might be a bit different if you are a Swedish national or if you've come from a different country. I had just come from abroad and started my masters in Stockholm. Finding a job was difficult because I needed to advance my Swedish language skills, I was interested in the public sector so language was important. The options are many but sometimes you don't know where to start. When you don't know the system well it would be good with information or guidance with how things function in Sweden, as of course all countries are not the same. It would be good with guidance from the university and information of options that exist that also do not require much work experience so that you can more easily make a start somewhere and work your way up. Many positions require a lot of work experience which you don't have when you are 21 or 23 years old that I was when starting my masters. Maybe more networking through the University. Better support for students from abroad because it is difficult to get into the Swedish work force and find something relevant to the studies. Maybe it was only my experience, but maybe someone else has felt the same.
Läs sådant som är användbart ute i verkligheten!
To do the internship while studying as it improves chances to get a job after Låt det personliga intresset styra.
Gå en praktik som är relevant för det som du vill jobba med efteråt.
Start looking for a job before finishing your studies. Try to take on a part time job in parallel to the studies (in the relevant field of interest). Try to make your thesis topic relevant to the work you're seeking after finishing your studies, and even better, try to get your thesis published officially as this will make your CV stand out more.
Fundera på vad du helst vill arbeta med och hur du kan relatera dina studier till det, snarare än att fundera på vilka yrken du kan få som statsvetare. Tänk brett och börja nätverka tidigt.
Do things outside of your regular degree. Internship, study abroad, language courses. A lot of people study political science so it's good to stand out.
If you know what you want to do in the future - of course - tailor your education. Especially if it is a job that requires a narrow education - such as attorney. If it is a bit more broad - such as investigator for police, government, military or civil service commission - then I recommend you focus on adding relevant free courses because they will matter much more. If you decide to study political science more broadly with less idea of what you want to do - but with a general idea - I would not recommend wasting years doing that. These kinds of educations are often too broad to be helpful when applying for job in a specific field. The courses you can choose are often much more valuable in combination with even a little experience will win every time. Unless you want to work at a university, PhD or similar I would say be careful what you choose.
Do internships. Broaden your views on eventual future employers. But most importantly, be kind to yourself and believe in your education.
Make sure to get work experience during your studies and make sure to ask the why, in addition make sure to experience different work places in the beginning of your career for example as a consultant
The internship was really helpful for me to better understand the Swedish INGO landscape. I'd highly recommend choosing to do an internship
Se till att läsa på tidigt så att du kan förstå koncept och ha en gedigen diskussion.

31. Har du några förslag på förbättringar för Statsvetenskapliga institutionen?

Har du några förslag på förbättringar för Statsvetenskapliga institutionen?

I would have liked to have more hours allotted to the seminars so that we can have more discussions and exercises based on the reading material we had.

Be more creative and openminded. There are many ways to explore subjects and using new insights and tools will broaden everyone's perspectives.

You could also increase the number of hours that senior professors spend with students studying at a basic level. Getting things right from the start helps a lot!

No

You should have a more practical course on for example how municipalities and regions work, and what you can work with in these organisations.

Ett ännu mer renodlat "byråkratprogram" än opo kanske? Där man även får läsa lite företagsekonomi, förvaltningsjuridik etc.

More practical experience courses / time at governmental agencies etc

Create networking opportunities with employers

Lägg till någon kurs som är relaterat till arbetsuppgifter på tex. En bank, myndighet osv.

Verkligheten är inte teoribaserad

Bring in more guest speakers from government agencies and relevant businesses, akin to KTH and FHS. This is a great way for students to network and get some insights into life after studies.

Cooperate with political parties for internships etc

Please try to get more students to go abroad

Tydligare stöd från lärare under kurser, särskilt uppsatsskrivande. Uppövever också att det var väldigt mycket (för mycket) grupparbete.

Kurserna med Kåre Vernby har inspirerat mig mest. Även grundläggande nationalekonomi när doktorander hjälpte oss.

More Group work

Close it down

Allow internships earlier. I was denied an internship opportunity by SU during my bachelor due to a technicality. I was told I can only do it during my masters. The university needs more flexibility in this since internships are the most important component of the education

Mer praktiska kopplingar!

Better connection to the labor market. Introduce different kind of ways to go after studies. Have like a job fair to build a stronger connection between uni and labor market. That gap is way too big and makes it difficult for students to find a job after studies with low or none experience in relevant fields.

Do better courses. You as a department has nothing on Linné, Skövde or Linköping. All better, with teachers that at least pretend to care about you as an individual and not just a number on a paper to tick.

Maybe also do some "working events". Friends from other universities studying physics etc. have so many events they couldn't even go to all of them. We didn't even get 1.

Kanske gå igenom mer hur offentlig förvaltning faktiskt fungerar, förvaltningsrätt och hur politiker på regional och kommunal nivå fattar beslut. Ibland var det lite för internationellt perspektiv och många kommer hamna på kommunal eller regional nivå efter sin examen

No

I would have liked a closer connection to government agencies and companies in order to get a better understanding of what are the possibilities after graduation.

Uppmana till praktik eller utlandsstudier snarare än valfria kurser

When I was a student, the quality of the courses varied widely and felt inconsistent. There was also not a lot of focus on climate change which would have been amazing to learn more about. But overall, very happy with my studies.

Misstänker att det är en del distansundervisning numera. UNDVIK DET! Distansundervisning är så jävla värdefullt...

Make the internship course mandatory.

Make it more practically oriented.

Not really,

Unfortunately not.

För mycket meningslösa grupparbete. Innehållsmässigt har jag inga synpunkter, men det var inte rätt ämne för mig. Jag borde ha lagt de där tre terminerna på att lära mig ytterligare ett språk, eller kanske läsa till en examen i filosofi eller historia istället.

If possible, establish more concrete collaboration with relevant organizations for internships. You could even have the department use students as research interns.

No it was a great experience (tho remote due to Covid) and the best university experience I've ever had Remove all DEI elements in the curriculum.

Increase the focus on political history.

Do anything you can to help students get internships

More network & career events. Potentially inviting alumni to tell about their career paths to show students different ways

I really enjoyed my time there, and I got a good overview of Political Science over the 2 semesters I studied.

1) tydligare information om vägarna ut i arbetslivet, t.ex. föreläsningar eller paneldiskussioner med yrkesverksamma, 2) erbjuda praktikkurser, 3) erbjuda utbytesstudier och MFS.

It would be good if the programmed included mandatory internships

I did not finish my political science degree and instead switched over to the business department but I really enjoyed the political science courses I took. If anything I would say to have more people as guest lecturers- people working in the field in different ways. This was why I switched egress, I couldn't really see a future or what type of work I would do.

Inget jag jobbat på idag. Misstänker att utbildningen ser annorlunda ut jämfört med 2017-2018. Kanske att ha någon lite mer praktisk kurs om handläggning inom det offentliga

The studies are very theoretical (which is good) but it would have been interesting discussing more current events relevant for the topic at hand.

Lägg allt i er makt för att hjälpa studenterna att få praktikplats!

Encourage erasmus+ and internships as well as other activities, it helps the students grow.

Additionally, university classes today must be interactive. The internet offers a young person plenty of outlets to gain knowledge and learn from world-class experts, so it's a waste of our time to come sit in a hall and listen to a non-charismatic & unmotivated lecturer speak for 90 min straight. Sorry to put it so bluntly.

Additionally, too many of my political science courses at Stockholm university were ideology-led. Too often the Department of Political Science is synonymous to a dogma school, rather than a true attempt at studying what seems to work in the world of policy (and what clearly doesn't).

We should have been forced to learn how to debate and defend our ideas. Each and every political scientist should graduate with at least 20 one-on-one debates under their belt. That is not too much to ask, considering an academic year lasts for around 30 weeks (and a bachelor's degree is 3 years). The world is more polarized than ever, and fewer and fewer people have the ability to withstand opposing political opinions - even less so discuss them in a civil manner. Political scientists should be the forerunners in this. Furthermore, 20-year-olds with their neural plasticity are in a fantastic age to benefit from this skill, and as a result, benefit the society at large.

Fire all the left wing activists.

More focused on commercial research for sure

Maintain relevant and updated courses, have much time dedicated to discussions.

How theories are over and over again are applied to more or less "new data" to draw the more or less same conclusions has become a bureaucratic process and lacks novelty. Considering AI deep research it is obsolete already.

It is probably necessary to promote thinking differently and there should probably be heavy emphasis on statistical methods. Most of the time should be allocated to regression analysis with powerful software like STATA beginning in the bachelors courses.

Make it more demanding so the degree can be competitive.

Se över era lektorer, saknar kunskap och andra perspektiv än västerländsk

My education was truly great!

I thought the system for the elective courses was a bit dysfunctional

Fler valbara kurser. Alla jag valde ställdes in så blev bara placerad där det fanns platser kvar.

Personally loved the flexible approach and ability to combine studies and full time work.

Praktisk förankring. Började studera under den längsta tiden i Sverige utan regeringsbildning och det lyftes inte på ett enda seminarium eller föreläsning. Det var så mycket fokus på politiska ideologiska inriktningar och på andra länders politiska system, samtidigt som inget fokus låg på praktisk politik i världen och Sverige. Hade likaså gärna fått tydligare politisk struktur i Sverige, hur förs kommunalpolitik och regional politik och vad påverkas där. Har fått lära mig hela det politiska systemet genom arbete, eftersom jag inte fick det av utbildningen.

The quality of education is generally poor and students aren't taking their studies seriously.

Not really - I still loved my studies!

More seminars on contemporary politics of Sweden and international politics.

Mer nätverkande med myndigheter. Vi anställer många och ofta och är ett bra sätt att få in sin fot på arbetsmarknaden.

Tydligare berätta vad man kan arbeta med, varför man löser de kurser/litteratur som man gör och vad man får ut av det. Jag tror uppsatsskrivande tentor, i merparten av fall, är att föredra framför salstentor. Under min tid ändrade man salstentorna konsekvent till utformning gentemot tidigare år vilket var till nackdel resultat och förberedelsemässigt. Berätta för studenterna tydligt vad man förväntar sig, vad det viktiga som man är ute efter i varje fråga är. Idag finns oändlig kunskap i samhället - men all kunskap är inte bra eller riktig kunskap. Viss kunskap måste man veta hur man tillskansar sig med nya verktyg/AI etc. Fokusera på det i ert utlärande.

koppla utbildningen tydligt mot vad ni tror att också arbetsmarknaden förväntar sig. Statsvetenskap är väldigt teoretiskt i sin utformning. Kanske går det att arbeta mer praktiskt, med olika program och simuleringar.

No.

Anything that helps student narrow their scope of interest within the field of political science would be helpful I believe.

Institutionen skulle kunna utveckla dess arbete vad avser arbetsmarknadsmässor och nätverkande. Under min studietid var majoriteten av de arbetsmarknadsrelaterade aktiviteterna som jag gick på organiserade av ekonomiska institutionen. Det är viktigt att elever med renodlad statsvetenskaplig utbildning dels bildar sig en uppfattning av potentiella arbetsgivare (utöver myndigheter), dels blir införstådda i vikten av nätverksbyggande - särskilt givet dagens arbetsmarknad.

Vara lyhörd och ha flexibilitet vid delat uppsatsskrivande. Jag personligen hade svårt med samarbetet med en medstudent. Fick inget stöd av lärare, trots flera samtal. Det påverkade uppsatsen och presentationen.

Try to be more practically oriented. The thesis writing process is not very relevant outside of the academic world. I got a MFS scholarship which did give me a lot of help in moving my career forward but it was mostly the experience that was valuable, not the thesis in itself.

Fler kurser kopplade till arbetslivet, kontakter med Arbteslivet, hjälp med länk till traineeprogram etc

Att anställa lärare som uppmuntrar kritiskt tänkande hos eleverna.

Vissa lärare kan vara bättre.

Yes, less positivist, stop being involved with Israel academia and research

Include animal politics in the courses. It's a growing field in law, and does no longer only belong in philosophy or political theory. Happy to advise!

1. Sluta ha en vänsterliberal politisk slagsida, och erbjud en mer objektiv och saklig undervisning.

2. Fokusera mer på praktiska kunskaper.

I remember from SU the lack of interest from teachers. When I moved over to another university in Sweden to pursue my political science studies the teachers were engaged with the students at the seminars and even took the trouble of learning their students names. This never happened at SU where the focus was on ticking off coursework requirements rather than talking to students or answering questions.

Mer fokus på praktisk kunskap och förberedelser inför arbetslivet

nej

Yes, I would have loved to do more complimentary courses in political science, but I have not been able to because of the strict on-campus-policy within the department. Online and/or hybrid/evening courses would be much appreciated, and open up the field to those of us who are interested in complimenting our other degree in social sciences with knowledge in political sciences too.

Fler tillfällen att använda teori i praktik. Hur skulle du utreda X för denna uppdragsgivare/organisation? Hur skulle du göra för att påverka X politisk process?

Not really. Everything was great.

Not really. The courses was interesting and I look back at that time with joy.

Be less biased to Leftist agenda and stop brainwashing students. Offer more objective and practical education.

Borde vara mer förberedande för yrkeslivet och närmare band till offentliga sektorn

Those who are in know better. A resource-rich department can help students much better.

Inkludera praktikplacering så en kan få en bättre uppfattning av hur en kan jobba sen. Och/eller lyft det på ett tydligare sätt i början av utbildningen samt löpande.

Include statistics in the pol kand

My trajectory was made incredibly difficult because only 7,5 credits from universities abroad were carried over. My advice for the department is to reassess their "experts" and to not actually "believe" that higher education in Swedish is "better" than education from Belgium.

This is a serious problem because the course load in Sweden is significantly lighter than in Belgium, despite the Swedish courses earning more HP.

Another issue is the lack of criticism towards Swedish politics and international relations. Academia is supposed to be sceptical and forward-thinking, not just an extension of the Swedish way of thinking.

A last advice is to bring in more foreign (guest) professors in order to gain a wider perspective on international relations and geopolitics.

I think the Master Programm was quite well organised. The Corona pandemic had a bad influence, of course. However, not much what the department could have changed here because of the pandemic situation.

One suggestion for improvement, please push the students more to do an internship. For me it was a big surprise that you cannot do an internship in Sweden outside a university course. The job market in Sweden is much more rigid in this regard. Maybe it was caused by the pandemic, but I really struggled to get into the Swedish typical public agency workplaces so that I ended up in a „uneducated“ customer support job. That wasn't fun and could have been prohibited if I knew earlier how the Swedish job market is structured. But again, maybe it was more difficult due to corona.

Get better internship sponsors. Its hard to find internships.

The course need to include more different methods and systems (data collection and data analysis). As of now the job market is not looking for people that have studied courses in power but they are more inclined to hire people that have experience with how politics are in real life. It would be interesting to study the theory of how politics are done in real life, for example in a region or a municipality and focus on different areas such as climate, law and infrastructure etc. This could be done in a project based course where half of the course (7,5 ECTS) are theoretical and then 7,5 ECTS are a project on the same subject.

Mer praktisk implementering av studierna

It's been a while since I graduated, so I'm not sure if it's still done the same way, but back then, we got confronted with a lot of different viewpoints, also those not generally cherished by Swedish and European society. And I think it was valuable. If you are still doing that, keep doing so:) If not, start again ;)

I have a high opinion of the Department. Keep up the good work!

Create a better community. No one knows each other there and we are all just silent puppets going to class. It would have been lovely if there were more projects where you had to be creative and work together.

There should be much stronger links to work life and organizations in the field.

Raise the standards for passing courses – in terms of both knowledge and language. Approving seminar papers and theses that are barely readable does students a disservice.

As a manager working both with the subject area and language, and having interviewed and hired candidates who graduated from your institution, I often request to read their thesis prior to a potential hire.

More coordination between the courses. Example: we've had introductions to Feminism in every single course. That's not helpful. Make it a dedicated course or series within the lectures but don't start from zero every time. And if we're already at the topic: include more intersectional resources for this topic.

I really enjoyed the course on Comparative Politics but it was too short. For me that was one of the most interesting aspects of PolSci and spending only a month on it didn't allow us to explore more in depth the cultural and political aspects of some nations.

The combination with Business Administration was helpful for me, as I ended up in a more Business Administration dominated field but passionately studied PolSci. However, during my studies these two departments did not seem to agree on anything when it came to the program they jointly offered. Time and time again we were searching for information and neither department seemed willing to take on the responsibility of supporting us.

In general, the PolSci I + II + III courses were better structured and easier to manage compared to the single course offerings of SBS.

From a methods perspective this survey is missing the aspect that I was an international student.

Good education.

Let everybody get their choice of Courses. No limits for number of students for each Class.

It might have evolved since the time I studied but involve climate and peace studies more

More open minded. My experience was that there was a heavily leftist bias. We can't have 50 % of the literature consist of post colonialism, gender studies etc. Some teachers could not let their own views influence the teaching. During seminars if one was liberal in their views, it was at a social cost. Some courses have no relevance for work life, make the education more relevant.

Offer students more guidance

More quantitative analysis

Less left wing propaganda, more real world facts.

Hjälp ut i arbetslivet, kontakt med intressanta arbetsgivare tidigare under studierna.

Its to broad and does not prepare you for your future career

Vet inte hur det är nu. Vissa kurser var mer strukturerade och lättare att ta till sig än andra, t.ex. metodkurser (kvant)

Lite för mycket poststrukturalism för min smak.

While theoretical knowledge is beneficial and very useful, practical skills are an important developing area in the program.

Lyft fram praktik mer

Sluta sälja in era egna forskningsprojekt när ni undervisar era studenter, särskilt när det gäller masteruppsatsen, utan uppmuntra studenterna till att bli sina egna forskare istället. Och sluta också att lajva naturvetare för det är ni inte.

Data analysis skills, relevant tool knowledge

Tycker de seminarier man hade där man diskuterade olika ämnen inte var tillräckligt öppna. Alla lärare var väldigt vänster (politiskt) och de som sade emot fick sämre betyg. Diskussionerna blev inte så öppna pga. detta.

I dropped out due to IPV and didn't receive adequate support or I would have been back and completed my degree. It still breaks my heart that I was unable to complete my degree during to the lack of support infrastructure around family- and intimate partner violence because I use political science in my day to day work today and I will always love it. I wish I could have completed my degree.

More method work and real life application

Gör några användbara kurser. Som att skriva CV, använda MS Office osv. Sakar man faktiskt behöver.

Stärk upp fokus på utvärdering. Det är en utbildning som ger praktiska kunskaper som många får nytta av

I was happy with my time at the departement but it's been a couple of years now so i can't really say.

Invite more guest lecturers.

Nej

Decide what the lowest accepted level of effort is, and act accordingly! Articulate what is expected and enforce it to foster an active student cohort that can benefit from each others participation.

When I studied at SU, there was no explicit demands on the students to for instance prepare in advance of seminars. The result throughout my bachelor was that people were poorly prepared and that this low level of effort really affected the attitude of the cohort toward the studies.

I personally did not get anything out of the larger student body, which I think is an important driver of knowledge and excitement when you study. I know that other universities that have higher demands also as a result have a better study environment. I felt as if the standard was constantly negotiated, and the rules that were supposedly there were never practically applied. This means that today, as a PhD involved in job applications, I would not trust that a degree in Political Science from SU actually guarantees an adequate level of knowledge in graduated students, but would have to base it more on an individual assessment.

No.
Organize a job fair
Keep up the intersectional perspective
No
More internship
Uppmana studenterna att göra praktik!
Collaborate more with NGOs, private and governmental institutions to help students get the experience and contacts needed for a future job.
Mer praktiskt för arbetslivet
Invite all political leaders for panel discussion where students can ask questions directly in the big auditorium every three months, due to it's election year 2026.
Encouragement to do internships and facilitation of them.
Maybe I have not seen but PhD programs in PS would be interesting
No
Listen to SVÄR.
Work on the gender representation among professors by making the department an attractive workplace for everyone.
I love studying there it was a great department! It was great that I could earn a degree by independent courses
Add internship, connection between theory and practice
Väldigt stor del av utbildningen hade, under min tid, stort fokus på forskning eller jag upplevde det som att jag blev skolad i att bli forskare snarare än en framtida tjänsteman i statsapparaten som ska kunna ta till sig och analysera forskning. Det anser jag är två olika saker. Under min tid i Berlin upplevde jag också att universitetet hade ett mycket närmare samarbete till myndigheter och andra organisationer på ett sätt som jag kunde sakna i Sverige, här är/var avståndet mellan universitetet och myndigheterna långt.
Relatera bättre till verkliga världen. Gör studierna praktiskt användbart för någon utanför akademien.
N/A
Det var oklart för mig vad jag kunde arbeta med som statsvetare. Jag läste det framförallt för att det intresserade mig och var kul. Hade gärna fått mer yrkesvägledning. Utöver det så tycker jag att utbildningen var jättebra och att många av professorerna på institutionen som jag fick träffa är otroligt kunniga och inspirerande.
More quantitative method and appliance to big data
Most jobs require more niched and practical degree than political science. Political science should be a secondary approach at coerces were the main focus should be on practical rather than elusive and theoretical. For example, commissioner, analytic, investigator, profiler, and so on.
Helping students networking for jobs that are more directly aligned with political science. Alot of student do not know what options are available to them when they finish with a degree in political science. Organize events for students to meet people in NGOs, political organizations and state departments.
Update the courses a bit, some were not adapted or super relevant to the world we live in today.
More collaboration with actual potential employers, such as public authorities, NGOs, businesses etc. Courses in Excel, Outlook, basic administration etc.
Yes, stop being corrupt.
More thesis support for international students
It was 10 years ago that I graduated. Thank you!
More connection to the working life - all students will not become researchers
Praktikterminen behöver ligga sist. Många liksom jag fick ta examen försenat och göra en halvbra uppsats samtidigt som man påbörjar en anställning direkt efter praktik. Syftet med praktiken är ju en brygga mellan studier och arbetsliv och den chansen som ofta kommer efter en praktikkurs, att få en tidsbegränsad anställning för att till exempel slutföra ett projekt man varit i under praktiken, kommer aldrig komma efter en termins paus med uppsatsarbete.
Mer hjälp med att skriva samt att strukturera upp studierna.
Support towards international students and more focus on how to transform our knowledge towards future job market
Better coordination between the courses in economics and political science
Not really, but in general work on cutting your over head costs so you can hire more phd students for research.
Jag vet inte hur förvaltningsinriktningen är, men även de övriga delarna av stats borde förberedas bättre på att förstå relationen mellan institutioner och hur de arbetar och fungerar i Sverige.
While the education is academic, and the academic value and relevance should absolutely be in focus, I think it would not be a bad idea during the thesis preparations to also give students examples (and perhaps some guidance) in ways to write thesis projects that have practical applicability, is of relevance to other fields in addition to the academic field, and involve working with actors/organizations that can potentially be relevant for future work opportunities. Providing students with examples of how the thesis work can be both academically relevant and a potential stepping stone into one's later career would be very useful, and in my experience was not at all highlighted when we were introduced to thesis writing, all of the focus was on the academics.
more structure in the supervision for masters thesis, and the possibility to work on your thesis quant data in methods
Se till att alla får ha praktik sista terminen istället för att lägga uppsatsen då. Det skulle ha underlättat jobbomöjligheter från examen.
Utbildningen skulle kunna vara lite mer praktisk. Minns det som att några professorer höll för många och många monologer. Göran Sundström tex var bra, skapade ett intresse för själva professionen. Stolthet i det man gör är också viktigt.
Make the standards higher
Mer praktisk undervisning av att använda olika metoder och verktyg. Mycket teoretisk undervisning vad gäller metod när jag pluggade.
Perhaps allow other electives in separate fields/subject matter, if not already possible, and prepare students that political science as a subject is not always possible to work directly in but skills and knowledge gained can help in other areas as well.
Clear guidance for choice of research topic for masters thesis.
Improve networks with actors from the "job markets" making it easier for students to get a better picture of a "real job"
Erbjud ett bredare utbud av kurser, gärna med mindre fokus på politisk teori. Det bör också vara möjligt att läsa både kvantitativ och kvalitativ metod (utan att behöva ge upp praktiken)
I would have liked some training in (or general information about) specific tasks that a political scientist might end up working with, such as government referrals, "ärendehandläggning" or "diarieföring" etc.
Adding another internship
Further research into how government agencies and/or other public sector jobs function regarding hiring practices.
Better assistance in finding internships, more internships opportunities etc
Have more contacts with and possibilities for presentations for employers, ie government representatives.

Institutionen är redan en utmärkt stor och bred institution av högsta klass. Eventuella nya perspektiv: 1. Tillämpning av AI inom disciplinen 2. En kundkaps-stormakts undergång, hur undvika det i en framtid?
Prepare students better to use their thesis to focus on real world issues that need to be addressed rather than theoretical discussions in epidemiologies, methodologies or ideologies
I attended the BAPS program which was in the last year not delivering what it promised from the beginning with the guaranteed double degree. I was, along side some of the other students after pushing it to the limit with the departments, able to finish with the double degree, however with the final pol sci course in swedish instead of english, just lucky that I am swedish. Also, in my opinion it wasn't a good program that mixed pol sci and business for a purpose, but just half of the two bachelors mixed into one. I attended extra night courses to make sure I got a proper education. I graduated a long time ago so I can only hope that the program has been improved since then. My answer for question 29 is only for choice of education, not career.
Invite alumni speakers to talk to existing students about their work and their journey
Be as flexible as possible when students wish to adapt the course programme. Interdisciplinary skills has been key to advancing my career, but during my time at Stockholm university I faced a rigid structure. I was also disappointed to have the final degree state something different than the masters I had actually studied and earned (being tied to only one of three disciplines I studied through the IMPRESS programme).
Overconfident but not necessarily more knowledgeable male students had a tendency to dominate the seminars in plenary, so more facilitation from seminar leader or more use of small group discussions would likely have enabled more students to engage Jag minns att en av våra lärare var mån om att hela klassen skulle få praktikplatser. Hon ringde kontakter och kom med förslag. Det var mycket hjälpsamt för många tror jag!
Encourage extra work more
Help the students get internships
As an international student, I had struggled more than Swedish and/ or EU students. My recommendation would be to provide more support to those students and present the opportunities that the university and professors could provide.
Provide more extensive guidance in the early stages of thesis writing, e.g. more opportunities to discuss different thesis topics
More lectures and seminars! Time learning from teachers are invaluable!
Reintroducing the "B-uppsats". Political science is a broad subject and the students should get the opportunity to specialize themselves at an early stage of their studies. This could be achieved by writing an essay at the end of the first- or the beginning of the second semester, for instance the B-uppsats. The students should be encouraged to explore the political science literature more independently, this could also be achieved through the B-uppsats.
Mer koppling mellan studier och arbetslivet.
Including more real life task. Like preparing material for decion making. Less of the genus-stuff, it was the most relevant part of my studies. Even though gender equality is relevant, the focus on left-side gender perspectives and explanations makes the department seem biased. It was very one--sided to a point where scientific method had been forgotten.
I would have wanted the departement to offer more connection to the research and researchers of the departement (and/or elsewhere) to increase chances of a PhD position. I believe that this might have changed, but there was nothing when I studied
Säkerställa att alla program inkluderar praktik
No
Jag studerar just nu en master på Sciences Po i Paris. Den största utmaningen för mig var att vänja mig vid det förväntade aktiva deltagandet under lektioner och seminarium. Under seminarium på Statsvetenskapen uppmuntrades man att prata i grupp och sedan lyfta i helklass, men inte riktigt att självständigt presentera en idé, frågeställning eller tanke kring materialet. Även om man ville så tillät inte alltid formatet den typen av dynamik i klassen.
Institutionen skulle också gynnas av att arrangera fler evenemang relaterade till relevanta ämnen eller karriär inom fältet. Upplever att det finns en bristande kunskap om alla möjligheter som finns.
Develop more niche elective courses (part of the reason why I took mine on an exchange st UPCH (Copenhagen)
Genuine interest in uppsats, got a lower grade because my advisor clearly didn't read my work and failed to advise on something crucial
Include practical philosophy to methodological courses.
Include an outside-of -science perspective to methodology. I got lost in methodology for a few years. It was very interesting. I would have needed a grown up person to tell me to look at things from a wider outside of science perspective.
I would stress the importance of diversifying into at least one high impact subject that shapes the playing field of Political Science. You cannot address the effects of religions of economics, engineering, gods or monsters without understanding both the beliefs and the people. I fail constantly to convey concepts such as social constructivism on market economy advocates, security (cyber or otherwise) experts, data analysts, and the like. I likewise fail to provide a nuanced perspective on the benefits of "AI" to medical practitioners, legal professionals, or psychologists. For Political Science, this is a problem of applicability (at least in the current tech-religious era) as the power dynamics have shifted away from political, democratic principles toward various forms of corporate influence.
Encourage internships and erasmus +.
Nej
Put a larger emphasis on the importance of doing an internship, traineeship and or study abroad to prepare students for working life and to gain additional insights beyond their studies. Gaining practical knowledge and how to apply ones theoretical knowledge is something I have found most helpful in my working career and something that gave me confidence in my own abilities.
Perhaps don't have professors who disagree on a theory grade each other's classes?
It would be great with internship as a free-seeek course at bachelore level.
Nej
Nej.
Kanske fler gästföreläsare från arbetslivet? Regeringskansliet, statliga utredare, andra myndigheter
*Att erbjuda åtminstone ett frivilligt seminarium där karriärvägar och arbetsmarknadens behov lyfts. Från vad jag minns fanns det inte några sådana som rörde specifikt statsvetenskap.
*Att kopplat till undervisning fundera över balansen mellan teori och praktisk tillämpning. Det är på många sätt både bra och roligt att fokusera på teori, såsom hur teoretiska antaganden kan se ut bakom en utvärdering, men för att använda det exemplet så skulle även kunna vara värdefullt att få lite mer kunskap om de specifika utvärderingsmetoder som förekommer på arbetsmarknaden då det ofta efterfrågas. Det handlar mycket om balansen mellan att kurserna både ska främja teoriutveckling för de som kommer att ha arbeten som relaterar till det, samtidigt som det ska förbereda de som är på väg ut i ett arbete där de applicerbara kunskaperna kan vara viktigare än de teoretiska.
Increase the connections to work life. Connect with organizations, companys, public institutions and NGOs and try a collaborative way like other institutions such as economics and management or communication and pr.
The IMPRESS Master is not really a good program and should be redesigned.
More in-person interaction. I barely knew my course mates
Nej

When I studied, I was not able to use credits from previous methodology courses in political science to skip the same courses in international relations (and the other way around). Maybe that has changed now. It felt very unnecessary for me to study 4 methodology courses which were basically identical, even same literature in some cases.

More time could be used for discussing the studies as a whole, both at the beginning and during the programmes, instead of just taking part in seminars for separate courses. Students should be given more time for supervision when writing their final papers or thesis at the Bachelor's or Master's level. Seminars in the method and theory courses were sometimes too abstract and not well connected to the literature or real life.

Möjlighet att ha en termin praktik inom ramen för sin utbildning under tiden man studerar kandidatprogram (om möjligheten inte finns nu).

Sluta utnyttja studenter i era egna forskningsprojekt.

Depends on the strategic direction and research focus, but personally I would have preferred more quantitative and methodology courses which I did get from the Department of Economics.

Things might have changed but when I was enrolled at the masters program thought it was almost entirely focused on preparing students for further academic studies. Working life relevancy was low and the elective courses seemed to be mostly randomly composed of what available teachers was personally interested in. Not a coherent idea of what students should/might get out from a masters program (from a working life perspective).

A course course in politics/policy making and business relations.

I enjoyed it, therefore no suggestions.

Don't give false hopes to students

It's not the subject that's the problem, it's the job field. First they require a university degree, and once you get that, they ask for practical experience. Then, even when you have both, there are still no job opportunities.

Offer internship as part of the masters programme.

Mer praktiska inslag - hur man tillämpar kunskaperna i yrkeslivet

Help the students to find events where they can get future working contacts

Less leftists

No

Arranging more things for students, its quite anonymous

They were all really nice but maybe engage more with SUPS and make sure the students and instution bridge and a more intergrated

More information regarding career choices, government work, aid work etc.

Nej

More women who teach and are responsible for the courses

See above.

Also not, really enjoyed the amount of possibilities for internships and exchanges. That was the most important aspect for me.

Field work, and easier access to internships

Kanske mer metod arbete och pröva på vanliga arbetsuppgifter (skriv en utredning som tenta istället för en vanlig hemtenta uppsats t.ex)

More practical focus that the students can use in their future workplace

Make it easier for students to gain internships.

Teach the students how to use AI

Too slow, low requirements. Just read the books and you pass. It should be at least 6 hours of school each day or 10 hours every other day.

There have to be a challenge to it and not simply a book club. Same critique to the history courses i did.

More time with the teacher and more interactive seminars outside the core books we read. Simply too easy to study this, i got bored and stopped trying which lead me to drop out since i thought it was going to be a proper challenge, stress inducing, inspiring with gratification after a completed course. Self study is a fools idea of education. Simply not applicable to real life. In real life you could self study but it being the main source of your knowledge and understanding makes people choose not to study at all. This lack of self study due to lazyness makes us all simple-minded and fall for unreasonable arguments and ideas. On campus study with a proper school day with cordinated lunch-breaks and not "come in for 2h today and we might even let you go home early", took me 1h to school and 1h back. Why would i be motivated to go university if i take more time traveling than learning?

No

Provide more courses that enhance students' employability

I remember that the programme which i started doesn't exist anymore, Global Political Economy. I would suggest from what I remember, that there was a big difference from one professor to another. The teaching and attitude towards teaching was not all at the same level. The level of teaching was very uneven and it caused big issues, and I remember many of the students I studied with had come forward to the Head of our masters programme with formal complaints. The course itself was very attractive to me and the subjects for the most part were very interesting and I was very happy to be accepted, but when I came to study and follow lectures and seminars it was not exactly as I had imagined. Once again, it may be my experience, but it would have been one of the best masters programmes in my opinion.

To summarize I would say the level of teaching, and the content of what is being taught would be good to be all at the same high level.

Tror jag påbörjat en kurs för länge sen som inte fullföljts så min nuvarande proffesion har inget med kursen att göra

Perhaps have course such as the methods course (as it involved many on campus seminars and lectures per week) in the beginning as this was the time where we as students got to connect for the first time. It could be useful to have such a course in the beginning especially because as international students the first semester is a very overwhelming period.

Other than that the Programme was very theoretical which could get really dry and boring at times. I was hoping for more empirical work (in the first year).

Ha obligatorisk praktikkurs inom ramen för kandidat inom statsvetenskap

Kan läggas än mer fokus på studenternas förmåga att skriva välformulerade analytiska texter då detta efterfrågas i arbetslivet samt mer praktiska kopplingar till hur det är att arbeta inom olika relevanta myndigheter eller företag.

I would have liked that many of the seminars had both a theoretical and practical component. For example, half the seminar could go towards discussing the theories previously studied, and the second half towards discussing real-life examples and scrutinising the theories based on said examples.

Keep on providing courses with different perspectives on the study of politics, especially important with the long tradition of critical and feminist studies at SU, which during my time 2013-2018 regrettably seemed to be more and more disfavored while rational choice perspectives seemed to be dominant, in the courses provided to students. Courses alike "Kampen för frigörelse" and "politik och metoder för jämställdhet" has been highly valuable both in terms of policy and methodology.

Add more courses that are specific for the working field of political science as an education - as it is now and you do not want to work at the university - it is secondary for future workplaces. How do you do investigations for/as a civil service commission or private market such as Sipri or similar. What craftsmanship is needed to be competitive on the market. I would argue that in many ways my Master in political science have helped me much in my of market activities - such as writing a book about the link between education and power, maybe in my public office at the (xxx) and thinking more advanced in general but not so much in my pursuit for an job. Maybe even in the beginning of the course student should answer questions and have an dialog with teachers and student counsellor or advisor so they can tailor their education more practical and get actual tools for competing on the market after their education.

More "law focused" courses.

Open a pub in the department? I found the balance of having a young family, working and studying particularly challenging during the thesis course. I ended up failing to submit my thesis when I knew that I would secure full time employment. It would have been helpful to have support or guidance from the department at that stage on what my options were in terms of applying to complete the thesis for the next year. I heavily regret putting in 18 months of hard work, and falling at the last hurdle.
