Teaching experience

Extent of teaching experience

I began teaching at the university level in 1993 as a PhD student at the Department of Psychology, Stockholm University. During 1995, I held a teaching assistant position (25%) at this department, and between 1996 and 1998 I was teaching 20% of full time. During the years 1999 and 2000 I was employed as an acting lecturer at Stockholm University, and at the Department of Social- and Behavioral Sciences, Mälardalen University College (50% of full time at both universities). During the years 2000-2007, I held a full time position as a senior lecturer in Psychology at Mälardalen University College, and since 2007 I have been a senior lecturer at the Department of Psychology, Stockholm University. During the years since my dissertation in 1999, I have had (except for one semester) a continuous teaching load between 50-100% of full time. In total, I have taught approximately 12.000 clock hours.

Teaching levels and subjects

I have been teaching at all university levels in psychology (Psychology I, II, and III, Master level, PhD program), at the Clinical Psychologist Program and at the Law Program. I have taught social psychology (stereotypes, prejudice, attribution, social identity, self-serving biases, group processes), cognitive psychology (perception, attention, mental representations, memory, problem-solving, decision-making, cognitive development, social cognition), personality psychology, psychology and law, motivation and emotion, learning and conditioning, and theory of science.

Course initiation, development and responsibility

I have developed and been responsible for the following courses:

Undergraduate level:

Personality and Social Psychology (7.5 points), Psychology I, Stockholm University, 2000.
