

Welcome to the launch of the Decolonial Feminisms Seminar Series at Stockholm University!

Join us for an insightful first lecture led by Professor Manuela Boatcă. She will probe into the crucial topics of knowledge production and decolonial counter-mapping. This presentation will unveil decolonial perspectives and themes that we will engage with over the coming years.

When: 27th May 15.15- 17.00

Where: Accelerator, Frescativägen 26A, Metro stop: University

The seminar is open, but please send us an e-mail to let us know you are coming: genusakademin@gender.su.se.

We will offer snacks and drinks!

Becoming an Author in Times of Asymmetric Ignorance. On Counter-Mapping and Self Indictments

How do knowledge producers - in the social sciences and beyond - try to grapple with the geopolitical positionalities built in the reigning self-understanding of their institutional structures and disciplines? In the lecture Manuela Boatcă discuss counter-mapping as a decolonial strategy to the essentialization of nation-states and world regions in social scientific and political discourse.

Prof. Dr. Manuela Boatcă is the 2025 Kerstin Hesselgren Professor, Division for Gender studies, Södertörn University. She holds a position at Albert-Ludwigs-Universität Freiburg Institut für Soziologie & Global Studies Programme, Germany.

For questions, please contact fataneh.farahani@etnologi.su.se or paula.mahlck@edu.su.se.