Course literature

The entry "Philosophy of economics" in the Stanford Encyclopaedia of Philosophy (http://plato.stanford.edu/entries/economics/)

Sven Ove Hansson, The art of doing science (will be available on Athena).

A brief history of economic thought, http://www.newworldencyclopedia.org/entry/History_of_economic_thought

R. Backhouse and S. Medema, 2009. "The Definition of Economics." Journal of Economic Perspectives, 23(1): 221-233. Available electronically through the university library.

Friedman, Paul J. "An introduction to research ethics." Science and Engineering Ethics 2.4 (1996): 443-456. Available electronically through the university library.

Sven Ove Hansson, "Who should be author?", brief paper to be posted on Athena.

Sven Ove Hansson, "Preference and choice", pp. 535-548 in Sven Ove Hansson and Vincent F. Hendricks (eds.) Introduction to Formal Philosophy. Springer 2018. Available on Athena.

Additional recommendations
In addition to the course literature, a few handouts and some further articles will be recommended during the course. You are also recommended to read one of the following two histories of economic thought:

Landreth and Collander, History of Economic Thought, 4th edition. [Best on early history and classical economics.]

Screpanti and Zamagni, An outline of the history of economic thought, 2nd edition. [Best on the last one and a half century]