Course schedule spring 2026

The course includes lectures, seminars and individual course work including an individually written research proposal or course paper which is presented at the final course seminar and then submitted upon finalization.

The course will be given in hybrid format via Zoom and on site at the Department of Psychology, Stockholm University, to also allow remote participation in the course.

Please note:
- Lectures will be given online via zoom or hybrid.
- There is an option to participate in seminars online or on site. Seminars will be held on Zoom for participants taking part remotely and in person/on site for those on site, at different times. Seminars will not be held on Zoom and in person/on site simultaneously (i.e., in hybrid format).

You will be asked to state if you plan to participate remotely or on site, in order to facilitate the planning of the seminars/seminar groups.
